Sunshine World is brought to you by Child Education Society (CES)

Child Education Society's entry into the world of education happened before India achieved independence. The journey since then has been long and eventful, and today, CES stands like a banyan tree – deep-rooted in Indian ethos, yet branching out to all that is universal. The seed sown in 1944, and nourished by the vision of its founding fathers, is today a pan-India conglomerate of 27 institutions under the Bal Bharati Public School umbrella.

All CES institutions follow a 360° approach to child development, with a balanced emphasis on academic outcomes and co-curricular activities, sports and values orientation. There is a long-lasting association between our older schools and their students – for instance, there are many families whose third or fourth generations continue to choose our schools. We believe in working closely with you in preparing your children for an ever-evolving society – making them happy and wise, curious and kind.

Even with the latest member of its family, Sunshine World, CES remains committed to its motto – 'Give us the wisdom and the ability to comprehend'.
